SCORAÍOCHT Guidelines

The basic principles of good stage presentation apply to SCORAÍOCHT but the following, more detailed instructions will, it is hoped, prove assistance to all participants. There are two distinct methods of approach to presentation of a SCORAÍOCHT each with equal validity:

- The dramatic or script type approach in which the producer chooses his/her theme and writes, a detailed script which identifies each character in the cast whether performer or actor, and by means of the dialogue into which are suitable woven the various items of music, song, dance, story, recitation etc. – the theme is developed to its conclusion
- The approach by which the chosen theme is developed through the medium of the music, songs and dance, stories, recitations etc. In this case the producer apportions his/her allotted time between singing, dancing and music, as distinct from time used to accompany the dancers and having selected the pieces appropriate to the theme and based on the capabilities of the performers, proceed to weld these into a continuous entertainment package with a minimum of dialogue.

Theme to be developed for SCORAÍOCHT competitions by the producer. Sample themes can include: Fleadh Seisiún, Treshing Day, Fair Day, St. Patrick`s Day, St. Stephan`s Day (Wren Boys), Emigration, Rambling House , American Wake, Delayed flight, Boat trip, Local Radio Station

Singing, dancing and music details similar to details as in Pléaracha above.
